NEED VITAMENES

VEGETABLE SALTS NECESSARY IN DIETARY, SAYS DR. COMSTOCK

Water drinking alone actually will relieve some ailments, according to Dr. D. D. Comstock of the Glendale sanitarium, who spoke on "Dietetics" in the big tent at the Seventh-day Adventist camp ground at Forty-first place and Moneta avenue at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon. Every person should drink six glasses of water a day, he said, besides the water obtained in fruits and vegetables. Some persons may drink even more to advantage, particularly in hot weather, the speaker added.

"Seven elementary food substances constitute the dietary of mankind," said the doctor, "these being starch or sugar, fats, cellulose, water, salts, protein and vitamenes. By the term 'salts' I do not mean simply the salt contained in your salt shaker. Of that I think most people use too much. What I refer to is vegetable salts. Such salts compounded in the laboratory are not the same as those contained in the vegetables, legumes and fruits. There is an arrangement of the molecules in nature's laboratory which is different from the composition of the chemist.

"These salts are necessary to maintain the alkalinity of the blood, and when the alkalinity is persistently low, rheumatism, neuritis and kidney trouble often result. To the degree to which this alkalinity is maintained to that degree you will enjoy good health, and a reasonable resistance to disease. Those who live wholly on a fleshless diet and who have done so from their youth, do not have cancer. Whether it is due to the presence of salts and vitamenes in more abundance in our dietary, or whether it is due to the absence of certain poisons and germs found in the flesh food, science has not demonstrated. Cancer is one of the diseases which is increasing in the world at an alarming rate. It has been established that there is a definite relation between the presence of cancer and the use of flesh foods. This should be sufficient encouragement to Seventh-day Adventists to continue with the dietetic program which they started upon many years ago.

"We need salts, protein and vitamenes every day. Protein builds up tissue. But the diet should not be entirely of protein. A lean meat diet is not the best. Protein is found in lean meat, peas, beans, lentils, corn in the ear and milk. If flesh foods are eliminated from the diet, protein in some form must take its place if we are to keep our health.

"In the eastern states some of us used to have spring fever toward the close of the winter, and we used to blame the climate. As a matter of fact, it is due to the diet, for buckwheat pancakes, fried pork and fried potatoes for months do not furnish all the food elements necessary to the body. Easterners know how good the carrots and parsnips tasted in the spring when the ground began to thaw, and they could be dug. If such late vegetables and fruits as could be kept through the winter were stored and used, spring fever would be unknown.

"Rickets is due to the same thing, mal-nutrition from lack of fruits and vegetables. It is a mild form of scurvy.

"Vitamenes, a substance found in green vegetables, fruits, raw milk, raw meat and the outer coverings of some grains, is of comparatively recent discovery. Lack of this very necessary food element through the use of polished rice in Japan, has been the cause of bara bara. Pigeons fed on polished rice for three weeks will sicken. But as soon as a few pieces of the outer husk of the rice, which has been removed, are given them, they recover. If the polished rice is fed persistently the birds will die.

"Pellagara is another disease of mal-nutrition caused by the use of grains from which the outer covering of the kernel has been removed as in the finely milled wheat and corn products now on the market. White flour has the vitamenes removed. Graham flour is much more healthful, and its use will help to cure many stomach ills. The body manufactures the digestive juices from vitamenes.

"Back in the good old days the farmer took his wheat to the mill and received the whole of it, ground up into graham flour. Our expensive milling process of the present day extracts from the wheat certain elements essential to the health of the human body. We put our corn through an elaborate process and present it to ourselves at ten cents a package, while the corn nearer to its natural state would be much better as well as cheaper.

"Fruit is better for supper than a combination of fruits and vegetables. The reason is that fruit is very easily digested, while the vegetables require a more elaborate process. If fruit alone is taken, it will be digested probably before one retires, but if a late supper of vegetables and other things is eaten, the poor stomach must work while we sleep, and we awake in the morning with a tired feeling and perhaps a bad taste in the mouth."

STUDIES AT BERKELEY

HIGH SCHOOL TEACHER TELLS OF SUMMER WORK AT THE NORTHERN UNIVERSITY

That summer vacation may be a time of profitable learning as well as recreation can be seen in the crowds of California teachers who throng the university lecture rooms at Berkeley. They are there in large numbers. Teachers of both sexes fill the lectures to overflowing. Specialists of national and in some cases of international reputation are giving courses of lectures on every imaginable subject. From such a course of summer study the teachers gain a new outlook on their own subjects and come back to the schools prepared to impart fresh inspiration to their many scholars.

Among the teachers of Glendale who have taken advantage of this course of summer study is Miss E. Maud Soper, teacher of English and history in the Union high school. Miss Soper said to a representative of the Glendale Evening News: "It has been of much advantage to me to have attended the summer school at Berkeley. The interchange of ideas among the students and the general widening of one's outlook by intercourse with earnest and well-informed minds from many sections of the country is worth a great deal. However, as far as my own subjects are concerned, I specially profited by the lectures of Professor Axson on "Shakespeare and the Modern English Drama." Professor Axson is a brother-in-law of President Wilson. His lectures were so crowded that it was necessary to hold them in the Greek theater.

"Professor Axson is an up-to-date lecturer, with a picturesque English style, through which run happy phrases, humorous, curious and at times pathetic. He gave us a profound sense of Shakespeare's handling of tragedy, his conception of idealism and also made us appreciate the light and shade of the wonderful comedies of the Elizabethan dramatist.

"Prof. Morse Stevens' lectures on "Nationalism" attracted large crowds also, though not so large as those who attended the Axson sessions. His subject was timely in view of the war and we learned much that was valuable concerning our duties toward the nation and the development of the national spirit.

"Professor Hoskins of Harvard university lectured on "The Normans in the Middle Ages of Europe." Norman influence made so deep an impression on life, language, literature and law that the United States has inherited a great deal that is significant in its national life from that wonderful and masterful race. These lectures were particularly valuable to one who, like myself, will be able to impart much of that teaching to the students in my history classes.

"Professor Hoskins also lectured on Greek literature, in particular on the "Greek Philosophers and Poets of the Sixth and Seventh Centuries."

"I profited greatly also from the historical lectures given by Professor Scholz on "Ancient Imperialism." He traced the growth of the imperialistic idea through all the ancient empires —Egypt, Babylonia, Persia, Rome— and showed how much it had influenced the world.

"Prof. Eugene Neuhouse gave a series of most instructive lectures twice a week on "Art at the Exposition." He explained and discussed the mural paintings, the architecture and the sculpture at the San Francisco exposition, showing the influences of the different schools and the tendencies of modern art. He also gave us exhaustive analyses of the color schemes of the different buildings. A great deal of this information is embodied in Professor Neuhouse's book on "Exposition Art," which is the last word on the subject up to date.

"Altogether, I profited greatly by my summer studies and feel that I can accomplish much more for my own students by reason of what I learned in Berkeley and particularly by reason of the widened mental outlook which comes as a result of my intercourse with the master minds there."

RECENT EAGLE ROCK FIRE

There is much fear of fire every summer by people whose homes are built on the hillsides, but never before did Eagle Rock people receive such a scare or come in contact with fire until late Friday afternoon of last week, when a fire was started by a certain person with the intention of burning the brush in the alley and on his property, but before it was realized, the flames had rushed up the hill and the whole hillside from bottom to top was a mass of roaring flames. The Moe bungalow was the first house to be watched, as the roof and edge of the hill almost meet, and neighbors assisted in hosing the house and grounds good while men folks with buckets of water and wet sacks bravely fought the flames.

Next the destroying flames took a northward course and about ruined the beautiful eucalyptus grove where the natural amphitheater is located. Mrs. Miller's home across the street was in great danger, as was Hume's in the next block, but men and boys fought so well that these were saved.

Still the fierce flames rushed rapidly onward and the Glendale fire department came to our assistance and the fire was put out, but not until it had burned along several blocks of College View avenue and clear to the tops of the hills. How fortunate no homes were burned or lives lost.

But what we cannot yet understand though is how Eagle Rock can call herself a city and pride herself as such when she affords her citizens no fire protection whatever. How many more such fires must we contend with or how many more homes must be burned to the ground with no means of saving them, as heretofore, before the great need is realized?

BANQUET OF NEBRASKANS

Nebraskans residing in Southern California will be glad to know that Dr. Samuel Avery, chancellor of the State University of Nebraska, will visit Los Angeles and its vicinity the latter part of this week. Of the functions to be held in his honor the chief will be the reception and banquet to be given under the auspices of the University Alumni club of Southern California and the Nebraska state society on Saturday evening, August 14, at 6:30 o'clock, at the Union League clubrooms, Second and Hill streets, Los Angeles.

Former students of the University of Nebraska are cordially invited and are requested to notify their interested acquaintances. The reception will be held from 5:30 to 6:30 p. m., and will be followed by the banquet. Reservations must be made for the banquet and can be secured at the Pin-Ton, 427 North Broadway, Los Angeles, either by telephone, personal call or by mail, inclosing check. Plates for the banquet, $1.25. All reservations must be redeemed by Friday, August 13.

To make aeroplanes invisible is the object of a recent invention described by the Scientific American. The wings are covered with a transparent, non-inflammable celluloid, and the machine is said to be invisible when flying a few hundred feet in the air.

LID IS ON LASSEN VOLCANO

The recent volcanic eruptions of Lassen peak, the most violent and destructive of which was the outburst in May, 1915, are reported by Geologist J. S. Diller of the United States geological survey, to have reached their maximum. The mountain, though it will doubtless continue to be an active volcanic curiosity, will not, it is believed, develop into a devastating fury, after the manner of Vesuvius or some of the Alaskan volcanoes or other well-known foreign volcanoes. In other words, old Vulcan has clapped the lid down on Lassen.

For several weeks Mr. Diller has been studying Lassen peak on the ground in co-operation with officials of the forest service and has reported to the director of the geological survey as follows:

"The great eruptions of Lassen peak of May 20 and May 22 spent the energy of the old volcano and put a lid on it. The effects of the flood on Hat creek are being turned to good account, while many visitors are safely climbing the peak. Although it is possible that Vulcan is simply conserving his forces for a future outbreak, the general indications are that he is closing up the Lassen peak branch of his laboratory for the season, perhaps with the intention of giving a small exhibit next spring when the snow melts."

THE SACRAMENTO VALLEY

The Sacramento valley divides the California coast range from the Sierra Nevadas, lying quite straightly north and south till it sweeps grandly to the west, where the river flows to San Francisco bay. Edwin Markham writes of the river, saying: "It traverses an empire rich in soil and yield. In the beginning this valley was only a scented, irised, lark-loud garden of trees and flowers for the Indian, the bear and the bee. In the first years of the Caucasian occupancy it was turned into a colossal sheep run; next into enormous grain fields, some rancheros owning principalities larger than Rhode Island.

"Now it is changed into pleasant places of orchard and vineyard and home. Flaming Tokays and purple Malagas have pushed away the wild fox-grapes, and walnuts and almonds have displaced the acorn crop of the live oaks. Indeed, here glows and ripens every luscious fruit the earth distills into skin and gourd. You may calendar the year by the processional of the orchards—cherry, plum, peach, apricot, nectarine, prune, fig, pear, grape, orange, olive, lemon and grapefruit. Berries may be picked all the year; melons thrive as under Syrian skies."

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

At the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce next Friday evening, Mr. L. W. Colfelt, who was an expert attorney in Philadelphia for several years, making a specialty of real estate law, will lecture before the chamber on the workings of the Torrens law in California. We would like for the citizens of Glendale to take advantage of this lecture and remember you are welcome.

TRIP THRO' THE LAND

W. E. HEWITT TELLS OF CONDITIONS IN UNITED STATES AND CANADA

Returning from an extended trip throughout the states and Canada, in the course of which he found time to acquire that best of all possessions, a wife, W. E. Hewitt, manager and proprietor of the Glendale laundry, had much to tell of conditions throughout the two countries. Leaving Glendale about two months ago, Mr. Hewitt traveled to Salt Lake City, where he found conditions very much what they have been for the past two years. From Salt Lake City by the Union Pacific to Chicago brought him to the Windy City in time to witness the mighty gathering assembled to pay the last rites to the deceased Archbishop Quigley, the Roman Catholic dignitary who was so well known throughout the East from New York City and Buffalo, N. Y., to Chicago and the whole of the Middle West. "I never saw so many ecclesiastics gathered together in one place in my life," said Mr. Hewitt to a representative of the Glendale Evening News. "From noon to 3:30 p. m. they moved in procession, with stately grief for the departed. In autos and on foot they pervaded the city and the sight was deeply impressive.

"From Chicago I went to Pittsburg where I spent two weeks. One cannot say too much of the beautiful roads in that part of the land. They are excellently constructed and wind in and out of some of the finest scenery I have ever viewed. Pittsburg was picking up wonderfully in business when I was there. The steel plants were doubling their capacity and the ammunition plants also preparing for an enormously increased output. It was the general impression among prominent business men there that everything would be running at its full capacity there by October 1.

"Buffalo, N. Y., I found rather dull. While other cities, like Detroit, Cleveland and Pittsburg, have been making wonderful increases to their population. Buffalo has only made a 7 per cent increase within the last year. It has been impossible to understand the reason for this. The city is beautifully situated at the Lake Erie entrance to the Erie canal and has always been enterprising and prosperous; that it should thus come practically to a standstill seems very strange. When I was there the Chamber of Commerce was holding meetings to devise steps to alter these conditions.

"Crossing over to Canada, I went up the Welland canal, through a picturesque section of country. Arrived at Grimsby, Ontario province, opposite Toronto and not many miles from the city of Hamilton, I visited my uncle, Mr. Hewitt, who was one time president of the Miehle Press company, but has retired. He possesses 800 acres at Grimsby, where he has a wonderful collection of deer, buffalo, angora goats and other animals. He is a kind of local benefactor and has done a great deal for Grimsby.

"From Grimsby I went back to Chicago; thence to Detroit, where I met many old friends, as I was at one time engineer of the water company there. Money is cheap in the East. At least my old banking friends in Detroit assured me it was.

"Back to Canada again I went; then to Pittsburg and to Chicago for the third time. I arrived there just about the time the strike was settled. The weather was cold and disagreeable. Thence to Pittsburg and on to Minneapolis, which has grown greatly within a few years and seems prosperous. From Minneapolis to Winnipeg, Canada, I went, finding nothing but soldiers everywhere. The general business of the country seems suspended on account of the war. There were at least 5000 soldiers in Winnipeg; bands were everywhere and recruiting going on briskly. At a little village forty miles from Sycamoose I saw about 7000 recruits drilling.

"Through the Canadian Rockies we went and leaving the track took a tallyho coach up the mountain to Banff and thence went by a gasoline railroad up to beautiful Lake Louise. Every hotel on the road was full; but as we had engaged rooms weeks ahead, we found it pleasant. There had been a recent fall of snow at Lake Louise. It was extraordinarily beautiful there.

"Through Western Canada we went past Regina, Medicine Hat and many other thriving towns of the northwestern provinces. We found Victoria rather dull and Vancouver in similar condition; soldiers everywhere. It did not look as though there would be a very heavy grain crop this season. The weather had been cold and rainy.

"Reaching Seattle we found a city where the inhabitants think themselves the cream of the coast. Indeed they believe that San Francisco will soon be left far behind in the race and that Portland is already discounted and a mere village compared to the northern city by the Sound. Seattle is indeed a very beautiful city and a remarkably go-ahead place also; but I think Portland is not so very much behind it.

"Coming to San Francisco I had time to make a leisurely visit to the exposition, which impressed me as one of the most wonderful fairs ever organized. Its exhibits are immensely attractive and the Canadian exhibit in particular is one of the most cleverly designed I have ever seen. After all these peregrinations, I was glad to get back to Glendale and to business."

TOURISTS CAN MEET

SAM'L PARKER SAYS CHURCHES ARE CONVENIENT CLEARING HOUSES FOR TRAVELERS

I attended services at the First Methodist church, Los Angeles (Dr. Locke's), last Sunday morning in order to meet a friend by appointment who was going east, and before and after service succeeded in meeting ten or more persons, tourists or residents, now living here, mostly church people strung along a line of acquaintance running back through forty years in some cases.

While greetings were going on in our "mess" a chance glance around the auditorium revealed the same process going on in various nooks and corners of the room. Some of the little gatherings took on the lively type of youth, with a dash of unrestrained gush. Others were sober and still others sad, indicating recent bereavement.

As the crowd melted away, I thought what a convenient clearing-house for such meetings Dr. Locke's church furnished, and no doubt the same process was going on in every church in the city. Optimistic impressions grow out of the fact that these arranged-for and incidental meetings are associated with the house of worship, and by tourists, who thus honor the Sabbath, in a state destitute of a statutory Sunday, by turning aside for rest and worship, rather than join the maddening crowd in its wild rush for amusement and dissipation.

Judge Edmund W. Burke and wife, for forty years my associates in the work of centenary church and Sunday school, Chicago, were met by me in this clearing-house of Dr. Locke's church, and the meeting though brief, was forced to answer for a possibly longer period, as they had intended to call on me at Glendale. How much we can say in a few minutes, in limited time, sometimes. How much we forget to say, sometimes, when we have before us no time limit.

SAMUEL PARKER.

BEAUTIFYING THE STREETS

"Aye be puttin' in a tree," said the old Scotchman to his son, "it'll be growin' whiles ye're sleepin'. " A recent traveler on the east coast of the United States remarks that when he traveled there some years ago he used to wonder at the little slips of trees securely tied to immensely larger stakes, which he observed at every part of the roadside. Those saplings carefully set into borders of turf are now large trees, affording a pleasing shade to the weary traveler in the auto or the dust-stained pedestrian.

It takes not so very many years to make the change; but the community that takes the old man's advice and keeps putting in trees every now and then finds itself before long in possession of stately avenues where the sun meanders sweetly, robbed of its burning rays, to fret the ground with the picturesque forms of bronze beach leaves or to cast the shadows of the weeping fronds of the pepper trees in varied fantastic images on the sidewalks.

By judicious planting of trees a city may be made a thing of beauty and a joy forever. One's memory goes back to many an eastern city of the states where the loving hands of the ancient city fathers and mothers planted wisely and well for the future and where the tree shade is now an asset to the adjacent property besides being a pleasure, even to the temporary visitor.

Glendale has ample opportunity to foster a fine growth of shade trees and it is to its credit that so much has been done already to make the streets beautiful by the addition of appropriate growth. The one drawback is the fact that unsuitable trees have often been planted and allowed to occupy space that should have been devoted to the real street shade tree.

Then, too, the trees have been allowed to grow so densely and without proper attention until their thick, shady recesses have become the breeding place of the destructive scale, which makes its home, like sinners, where the dark is. The lesson to be drawn from all this is that intelligent work of park commissions and city councils and managers means a very great deal to any city.

As years go by the trees that the present council has so wisely planted and the others that it is so wisely caring for will make a veritable Garden of Allah out of this pleasant city of the foothills. The beautifying of the city is a task that has its rewards and though the men who help to do the work or even initiate it may not live to see the full fruition of their labors, they none the less have their reward. If the blessing of God is on the man who makes two blades of grass grow where but one grew formerly, the man who grows two trees where only one grew deserves a double blessing.

INDISCRIMINATE BIRD SHOOTING

Complaints have been quite frequent of late at police headquarters concerning indiscriminate shooting of the protected birds within the city limits. "Boys armed with .22 rifles keep up a fusillade from morning till night," said one complainant, "in my part of the city. They make constant onslaughts on the mocking birds, shrikes, orioles and the beautiful mountain quail, which breed in the waste grounds around the city. In some places I notice they have driven these birds away or have slaughtered them."

It may be well for parents to notify their boys that this practice of indiscriminate shooting must be stopped at once otherwise there are certain to be prosecutions, which may be quite serious, for the shooting of those birds is not only a misdemeanor by reason of a city ordinance which forbids the discharge of firearms within the city limits, but is also a violation of the laws which protect these birds.

Worse than all, the killing of the innocent birds that frequent our gardens increases the multiplication of the insects that destroy so much plant growth. The shrike may be observed at any time where he is encouraged, destroying hundreds of hurtful caterpillars, slugs and other garden pests. Instead of permitting the destruction of the common birds they should be encouraged and their indiscriminate shooting checked and punished.

HOW WAR BREEDS WAR

Those who imagine that it is easy to avoid war if a country is so disposed may take a lesson from the present intolerable conditions in Norway, Sweden and Denmark, which have scrupulously endeavored to keep out of the horrible embroilment of Europe. All through the course of the war the shipping of those countries has been suffering and the remedy does not appear. The cost of the war would be too much for those countries for it is found that even the cost of mobilization of their armies is overburdening the people.

Those three countries are even now trembling on the verge of war. Sweden dreads Russian aggression and would like to strike that country a blow while its army is embarrassed by its recent defeats. Norway has her army mobilized and is groaning under the burden and waits with anxiety the elections which may plunge her into the fray. Denmark fears both Russian and German aggression.

Denmark is almost unable to stand the deficit in her treasury of about $1,500,000 a month consequent on the expense of maintaining an army in idleness. Should Sweden and Norway decide to enter the war, Denmark must go with them by reason of a recent treaty. Thus there is reason to fear further extension of the war zone and more misery to poor humanity.

A wise dealer in the city of Glendale has a sign posted in a conspicuous place which reads, "If you want to talk war, join the army and get paid for it."

THE SEA IN SUMMER

The sea breeze came in freshly with the tide and the little waves danced for joy around the buoy, and the old buoy danced with them. The shadows of the clouds ran races over the bright blue bay, and yet never caught each other up; and the breakers plunged upon the wide, white sands, and jumped up over the rocks, to see what the green fields inside were like, and tumbled down and broke themselves all to pieces, and never minded a bit, but mended themselves and jumped up again. And the terns hovered like huge white dragon-flies with black heads, and the gulls laughed, and the seapies with their red bills and legs flew to and fro from shore to shore, and whistled sweet and wild.—Charles Kingsley's "Water Babies."

Who are the "peace at any price" men? We hear a great deal about them, but never meet them. We believe they are no more numerous at least than the "war at any price" men.

FACTORY PIANO STORE

J. HARLEY LONG, Prop.

Phone Colorado 7230 — 17 and 19 W. Colorado St., Pasadena. — Store Open Evenings

PIANO SALE WILL BE ON BIG SCALE

The rebuilding of 17 and 19 West Colorado street, Pasadena, into a modern piano and music store for the Factory Piano Store and the Melody Shop, has brought about one of the greatest piano sales in Pasadena in some years. Work on the building will commence August 17, but in this interval the stock of fifty high-grade instruments must be reduced to eight, which means a sharp cut in prices to move this stock. Such prominent pianos as Baldwin, Emerson, Shoninger, etc., will be sold at prices unheard of in this city with the same liberal terms as offered before.

The Factory Piano Store is operated under the personal management of Mr. J. Harley Long, who is responsible for this remodeling sale. Such well-known pianos as the Baldwin, Ellington, Shoninger, Emerson, Howard, Hamilton and J. and C. Fischer are included in this great reduction. By August 17 over thirty pianos must be sold to make room for the contractors. Business will be carried on as usual during the process of rebuilding.

The Melody Shop, under the management of that well-known musician, Mr. I. R. Walters, will continue to give the same popular sheet music service to the public. To those who appreciate good, up-to-date music, Mr. Walters is in a position to render valuable assistance.

While the Piano Factory Store and the Melody Shop are under different management, they occupy the same salesrooms and have the same common interests.

This sale has been in the minds of the owners for some months so that the bargains in high-class instruments is the result of much thought and consideration.

The new home, when completed, will be one of the most attractive on the coast, and will be ranked as one of Pasadena's show stores. During the sale the store will be open evenings with a free auto service available to its patrons.

WILL GO EAST

Miss Grace Crampton of 1011 Chestnut street will leave on Saturday for an extended trip of three months and will visit friends in Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska. She will be accompanied by her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Isitt of Kansas City, Mo., who have been visiting at the Crampton home for the past two months, and are so delighted with California that they will return in a short time to make it their future home.

LA CRESCENTA

Miss June Luttge of Burbank spent Monday as a guest at the Hauber home.

Mrs. Ralph Haines returned Monday from a two weeks' vacation spent at the beach.

Mr. Robinson of Los Angeles is a guest at the La Crescenta hotel for an indefinite stay.

Dr. Alden, wife and party of Los Angeles took dinner at the La Crescenta hotel Sunday.

Mr. H. O. Jones and Mrs. Waltz of Los Angeles avenue were among those who Sundayed at Venice.

La Crescenta is rejoicing over the news that they will soon see the big red cars in the valley and be able to ride to Los Angeles without transfer.

Mr. Joe Hawkins and family and their guest, Mrs. Hester Bernard, Mr. Hawkins' sister, enjoyed the ride to Santa Monica via the new canyon road Sunday.

Miss Brown of Fairmont avenue is having the lawns and yards around her beautiful home systematically arranged with walks and drives bordered by native cobblestone work.

Mrs. Elizabeth Walper is rapidly recovering from her recent sickness under the efficient care of her mother and sisters at the pleasant Skow home in the northern foothill section.

Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Garver after a month spent in La Crescenta on the T. M. Smith ranch, have returned to their home in Los Angeles. They are ardent admirers of our valley and its people.

Mrs. W. Eckart and sister, Miss Olga Brandenberg, went to Venice last Thursday, where they were joined on Sunday by the Misses Minnie and Annie Skow, and all will participate in the pleasures of that noted resort for a week or more.

Oliver Russell and wife from Minneapolis, Minn., spent Sunday with their cousins, the Fred Russell family of this place. Mr. Oliver Russell has bought five acres of ground in Santa Anita, near San Gabriel, and will soon be a regular Californian.

Russell & Reid, contracting carpenters, have just completed putting a roof on the big Holmes-Walton reservoir at the head of the valley and are now engaged building a small bungalow or "lodge" for Mr. Walton in Oakdale in the southern foothills.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Schultz will take charge of the La Crescenta store and postoffice next Monday and their own pleasant bungalow and its acre of cultivated land is for rent. It is situated close to the car tracks and would make some city worker an ideal suburban home.

The Fairmont hotel and the residents of that section are rejoicing over the fact that they are promised electric lights by the last of this week and this is especially gratifying to the hotel people, as they have been very much inconvenienced by their lack.

Mrs. John Leenhouts of West Michigan avenue returned Saturday from a week's visit with her son, John, who is at Mojave for his health. She reports the thermometer as registering 124 degrees at that place and is glad to get back to balmy La Crescenta.

Willis Wise is putting the finishing touches in the way of plastering and tinting to his new chalet on Los Angeles street. On its completion his children, two sons and a daughter, who are now employed and living in Los Angeles, will make their home with him. Our young people will give them a cordial welcome.

A. Fusenot, formerly of the Ville de Paris, Los Angeles, will soon construct a model foothill mansion home in our northwest section. Fisher of Sunland, who has the grading contract, has had a force of men busy for the past four months getting the grounds in shape, while the road contractors commenced on their share of the work on North Pennsylvania avenue this week.

J. L. Hauber took in a truckload of fruit Tuesday, among which was twenty-three boxes of peaches of the Susquehana free-stone variety, and packed forty in a box, which had had a net weight of forty-one pounds to the box. Twenty-three boxes of the peaches, in which the average weight was over a pound each, is certainly some peaches.

"Don't leave your camp fire burning." That is the advice of H. L. Silkwood, forest ranger for this section, as the minimum fine on conviction is fifty dollars. Mr. Silkwood informs us that he has had to arrest several Glendale people and while he hates to make trouble for them, yet this is the danger season and the law must be enforced.

C. J. Anderson, who has so successfully conducted a general store on lower Rosemont street for the past four years, has decided that he has too much else to do, so will close out his stock as soon as possible and is offering the goods at regular bargain prices. Better drop in and take advantage of the fact and save some money.

The hotel register at the Fairmont shows the following guests at present: H. E. Spears and wife, Miss Clarice Spears and Hal Collings of Monrovia; Messrs. George and Everett Harris of Los Angeles; Stewart MacMillan of Pasadena; Mrs. Mary Blinn and Miss Lulu and Miss Ruby Dessery. The management of the hotel are very much pleased with the way things have opened up for them, everything betokening a successful season.

La Crescenta Improvement Ass'n

The association held its regular monthly meeting last Friday evening at the home of its president, Dr. Claud, with a full attendance. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Harvey Bissell, and were regularly approved. Mr. Bissell as one of the committee on electric lights, made his report, giving the cost of lighting Los Angeles avenue and Honolulu avenue to Michigan avenue, and Michigan avenue from the church to Rosemont avenue, then one block north to Fairmont avenue and thence east to the Fairmont hotel on Briggs avenue.

The prices given were for an all-night service system, and after considerable discussion the matter was referred back to the committee with instructions to ascertain the cost or rate of a lights-to-midnight system.

The committee which had been appointed and had previously reported in part, reported that they had secured the right-of-way desired at the Dunham hill and received the deed for it, and that bids had been received and the contract let for the state highway, which will convert Michigan avenue into a boulevard, connecting La Canada to Monte Vista through La Crescenta.

The matter of water development was informally discussed, but as the speaker on this subject was absent, the matter was carried over until the next meeting.

These meetings are held on the first Friday evening of each month and a cordial invitation is given to all residents of the valley to attend and take part in the work. The present membership is about forty.

OAKDALE

Miss Clara Hyde of Los Angeles is spending the week with her friend, Miss Clara E. Jones.

A dance was given at the Oakdale pavilion Saturday evening in honor of Miss Lena Matson.

Mr. and Mrs. Matson have had as a guest their granddaughter, Miss Lena Matson of Sherman.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Jones of Sycamore street are visiting relatives in Huntington Park this week.

Mrs. Lovejoy of Redlands has returned to her home after a week's visit with her father, E. C. Foy of the Oakdale tract.

Miss Ida White, an artist from Chicago, was the guest of Mrs. J. B. Russell of Honolulu avenue Monday and Tuesday of this week.

Miss Maud Patterson of Huntington Park returned home Monday after a week's visit with her friend, Miss Clara E. Jones of Sycamore street.

Mr. and Mrs. Kemper, who are having built the new rock bungalow on Sycamore street, are expected here the first of the week to take possession.

Mr. and Mrs. Nutt and Mrs. Stryker from Huntington Park were guests at Audubon, the J. B. Russell home on Honolulu avenue, Thursday of last week.

The above is the appropriate name given by the Holmes-Walton company to their latest tract, which adjoins Montrose on the west and extends south from La Crescenta to the southern foothills of the valley. Oakdale contains many pretty, up-to-date homes nestling among the live oaks and in its social affairs surpasses many older localities. The editor invaded this section for the first time last Tuesday and was given a most cordial reception. Henceforth Oakdale will be "on the map" as far as this paper is concerned.

The Oakdale Social Club

The ladies of Oakdale, acting under the suggestion of Mrs. L. M. Clarke, have organized a social or get-acquainted club, with the above title, which meets every two weeks and consists at present of twelve members. The regular meeting was held last Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Dodd on Honolulu avenue. Mrs. Dodd is an ideal hostess and the ladies report a most enjoyable afternoon, spent in social converse and fancy work, during which time delicious refreshments, consisting of punch, cake and strawberries, were served. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. J. B. Jones as hostess on August 19.

Picnic Honoring Visitors

At her new suburban home, Audubon, on Honolulu avenue, Oakdale, Mrs. G. B. Russell was hostess at an enjoyable picnic gathering which had as guests several out-of-town relatives. Miss Gertrude Nash, former president of the Iowa Federation of Women's Clubs, and member of the general federation board, who has recently come to Los Angeles to reside and who is a daughter of Mrs. Russell, was among the guests. Plans for Storm Water Drain

Ralph F. Beegan of the county road department was in the valley the first of the week with the maps and plans for the storm drain planned to be constructed along a line about parallel to the north line of the La Canada ranch. This when done would drain only the storm water from north of Roy avenue, where it cuts across the Hannah property and from thence east to where it runs south from the Gould ranch. But after going over the proposition quite thoroughly, he concluded that it would be a better proposition for the valley to begin the drain at the foot of the Hill school, west of School street, as by so doing most of the water which floods School, Haskell, Texas and Roy avenues would be carried east to a point between Hampton and Crown avenues and go south under Michigan avenue, through the present culvert at the foot of the hill. This improvement will be quite expensive, but its cost will be more than sabed in one year. The improvement of Texas, Roy, Haskell and School streets will depend on the immediate construction of this storm drain.

The "circus day" social given on Thursday evening by the Epworth League on House's lawn proved to be a success financially as well as socially. There was a ticket wagon and admission into the grounds was free. Miss Esther Kolbe acted as ticket seller for the side shows, fortune teller, art gallery, etc., and one cent admission was charged for each special attraction in the side show. There was a big parade after all the people had assembled. This was composed of the people themselves who marched around the lawn three times and each imitated by his walk some animal which he had chosen to represent. Of course the clowns took part in the parade, too, and this caused much merriment. The side show brought in many pennies. Some of the main features it contained were the famous tumblers, fat woman, ride in the aeroplane, the unclaimed treasures, and various others. In one corner the fortune teller had her tent and in another corner the art gallery was located. There were ice cream, cake, lemonade and candy booths, where these articles were sold and the receipts from these proved satisfactory. Misses Birdie and Ruth Crandall and Messrs. Crow and Hightower had charge of the booths. Indeed the whole affair reminded one of a "really truly" circus grounds and the lights were pretty Japanese lanterns hung on wires over the lawn. After the show a huge bonfire was made and games were played until a late hour, when all departed voting it a big success and a benefit to the league treasury.

CURIOUS BATFISH

Among the new fish in New York's aquarium is the batfish, with a head like a bat and two large fins it uses for walking on the bottom of the sea; also a gagfish, which gasps so for breath that it seems as though every moment would be its last. It is said that heretofore few sober men have beheld either of these creatures.
